English for Law

CRICOS Course Code 063996G

In this era of globalisation, the ability to use English effectively is a prerequisite for a successful career

UNSW Institute of Languages offers English for Law, a 5 - 10 week interactive course designed to give students the experience and the written and spoken English skills necessary to communicate effectively with clients and professionals in a legal environment. It also provides the preparation needed to successfully sit the International Legal English Certificate (ILEC) exam and builds students' skills for success in postgraduate legal studies.

Who should take the Course?

English for Law is designed for students of Upper Intermediate to Advanced level of English, who have a background in law.

The course is ideally suited for students approaching the end of their degree programs, postgraduate law students or for legal professionals seeking to:

- improve their English skills in a legal context
- improve their English skills to increase their employment opportunities
- improve their English for postgraduate studies in Law
- increase their confidence in their speaking, writing and presentation skills in English in the legal environment
- participate more confidently in English speaking meetings and negotiations
- prepare for job interviews conducted in English.
